Video - Round Three

Prototype - Results

- Easy to remember: geometric shapes, 90°-angles, connected lines, recognizable objects (shoes)
- Hard to remember: nearly everything else, many copies of a single shape
- Time limit is very important:
 - Too much time: player finishes too early, realies they should have drawn more accurate
 - Too little time: player can't finish the painting, thinks it's unfair
- Guard: Very entertaining, added physical activity and uncertainty to the game
- Darkness: adds to atmosphere, flickering flashlight makes the player nervous, otherwise didn't affect the gameplay much

Feedback

Reviewers liked...

- our story and puns.
- the VR aspect.
- the idea of the sculpting mechanic.

Reviewers showed concern about...

- the difficulty of the painting process.
- drawing without a surface.
- the lack of an immersive introduction.

Reviewers suggested...

- to focus more on the painting part.
- to keep difficulty in mind.
- to give feedback in the game.
- to add different tools.

Considerations

- Adding levels with scaling difficulty
- More challenges centered around the canvas
- Different tools for different textures
- Avoid repetitive shapes
- Expand the story and add an intro cutscene
- Add a feedback system
